Translation.—The following letter received from the Government of the East African Protectorate is published for general information:—

更長、更強、更耐用

TWO BRIGHTON, MAINE,
EAST SPINA PASTORALIST,
JUNE 27, 1912.

Work

I have the honour to inform you that the Government of the British East African Protectorate has recently had under consideration the desirability of extending the provisions of the Immigration Restriction Ordinance, 1900, and the Immigration Restriction Amendment Ordinance, 1913, to the British East African Protectorate.

2. Section 31 of the original ordinance provided that any person appearing to be a prohibited immigrant under section 8 (a) "might be permitted to enter the Protectorate on payment of a deposit according to sub-section 1. If the score of any visa restriction was shown to be acting as a barrier to the land of passage, who might well be admitted to the country, and the governing Ordinance was amended accordingly."

9. In the great majority of cases no arrangements for attack occurred in line of the deposit, and in many cases such persons have had to be allowed to land in order that they may be able to make the deposit permitted by section 11 of the Ordinance of 1906. It is possible, however,

4. The Government has therefore decided that all immigrants should either make the necessary deposit on arrival, or pay the necessary amount in advance.

¹ The service provides the investigation of any person, witness, victim, suspect or any person who is involved in a crime or a public charge.

enforcement of this regulation will take effect as from the 1st of September 1918 and I have the honour to request that steps may be taken to make this procedure known to those districts from which immigrants to British South Africa usually arrive. Persons who cannot deposit the necessary sum or have failed to find the requisite security will after their date of arrival be sent back to India, and the Government of this Protectorate will not hold itself responsible for any expenditure thus incurred.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant.

G. O. BOWMAN.

Chief Secretary to the Government.

Local Governments and Administrations are requested to make the notification contained in the letter as widely known as possible, particularly in places from which emigration to British East Africa is believed to be most common. Intending emigrants should also be warned of the risks they run in proceeding to the Protectorate if they are unable, before landing, to deposit the sum of Rs. 50 or to comply with the demand for the requisite security in lieu of the deposit.

Done, the 2nd September 1918.

1. Every native of India who contemplates proceeding out of India to foreign countries is strongly urged before leaving, to furnish himself with an authoritative certificate of identity, in the form appended to this Resolution, issued by the head of the district (in a Presidency Town and in the town of Bargarh, the Commissioner of Police) or the head of residence of British India, and by the Political Officer in that of residence of Native States. Applicants for assistance by destitute Indians who desire repatriation and by students who, owing to unfavourable circumstances, are unable to complete their course of education, cannot be dealt with satisfactorily unless the person are in a position to produce evidence of identity. The possession of a certificate of identity will be equally useful to young men of good family, as it may enable the Secretary of State to obtain for them social and other advantages.

Those who are desirous, however, of travelling in countries where a passport will be necessary are advised to furnish themselves with such a document also before leaving India, in lieu of, or in addition to, a certificate of identity. It should be remembered that no person is entitled to a passport, as of right, on the ground that he is a British subject, and the production before authorities outside India of a certificate of identity, unless supplemented by documentary evidence of respectability, is not sufficient to ensure that a passport will be granted.

NOTE.—If there is a certificate of identity issued to apply subsequently in England or elsewhere for a passport to visit a foreign country one cannot then in person be entitled to a passport in that country, as the certificate is not a British subject. The production of a certificate of identity, therefore, will not enable one to obtain a passport in a foreign country, unless it is accompanied by documentary evidence of respectability, endorsed by a local Government or other authority competent to issue passports in such countries, and that the holder is a direct proper person to receive a passport.

MEMORANDUM, DATED 15TH JUNE 1918, PREPARED BY THE GENERAL PURCHASING BOARD.

How Hoarding Helps the Germans.

How can I help to win the war? is the question which should be present in the mind of everyone in India to-day. Very many thousands of Indian soldiers have fought gallantly side by side with their British comrades in France, Mesopotamia, Egypt, Palestine and elsewhere, and great services have been performed by Indian infants and by labour corps raised in various parts of India. Everyone cannot go out to fight, but there are few who cannot assist in one way or another in back up our soldiers in the field. America consisting of men drawn from India, from England, from France and from the United States are protecting India from an enemy who if successful would rob and oppress the people of this country, and therefore it is the duty of every true Indian to help in every possible way the soldiers who are bravely fighting for them. It is astonishing but it is none the less true that there are people in India to-day who instead of assisting to win the war are hindering the efforts of the army and are even helping the enemy. They do not know the harm they are doing; they do not understand that their action is making it more difficult for victory to be won and for peace to be restored to the nations of the earth. In modern warfare it is not only the soldier who has to play his part. The armies actually fighting must be supplied with rifles, guns, ammunition, food and many other things which have to be produced by people who stay at home, and have to be sent by ships long distances over the sea to the soldiers in the field. Those who make it more difficult for the supplies to be produced and for the ships to carry them to the fighting men are assisting the Germans and their Allies as much as if they are actually working for the enemy.

It may be said that no one in India would willingly injure the soldiers of his own country who are fighting his battles or would add to the hardships which they have to face. This may be true, but it is also true that people who during the war hoard respect by buying them, by looking them up in boats, or by calling them down for use as ornaments are doing serious harm to their own country and to all the countries which are engaged in fighting for the liberty of mankind. When these thoughtless people who buy silver ornaments are thereby encouraging the practice of making up the silver used for making these ornaments instead of the present time be obtained in any other way. Such persons probably do not know that if rupees are hoarded in India the Government have to buy silver in the distant foreign lands, and to bring it enormous distances across the sea in order to make the new rupees which are necessary to carry on the business of the country. Here is a fact which will help to show what hoarding means. During the last two years the Government have been compelled to buy silver in order to coin no less than 50 crores of rupees to take the place of those, which have been thoughtlessly hoarded by people in India. Further they have now found it necessary to make arrangements to bring from our great friend and Ally, America, an additional amount of silver to enable them to coin 50 crores more of rupees. A large part of this silver is on its way to India and the remainder will shortly be sent here.

The supply and purchase of these huge quantities of silver are very wasteful in many ways. In the first place these purchases mean that India sends her resources abroad in return for mere metal. If the Government of India had kept the money required to buy this silver, India would have received interest thereon amounting to more than Rs. 5 crores a year. This additional income would have made it possible for the Government either to reduce taxation or else to spend larger amounts for the benefit of India either by providing for better education or sanitation, or in other ways.

Again, we can in this matter learn a lesson from our enemies. Germany has been able to carry on the war for so long largely because she adopts as one guiding principle that of "waste nothing." The hoarding of silver in India is a most flagrant waste of an essential of war. Exactly the same applies to the hoarding of gold. It is almost as bad as hoarding shells and other ammunition instead of letting them be used against the enemy. The Prime Minister of England has told us that silver bullets will win the war, and yet in India, by hoarding our silver and gold, we are hiding away silver and gold bullets, so that they can be of no help in winning victory.

It is also important to realize that in all other countries except India a note issue has been developed and popularized in order to economize the metal used for coin. This is especially the case in Japan where very small notes issued are now in circulation. India is the only country which uses metallic coin instead of notes to the enormous extent which she now does. The result is that people of other countries are benefiting greatly from this policy, so that they grow richer at India's expense.

Apart from the effect of the practice of hoarding on the wealth of India, it must also be remembered that the production of silver from the mines of America calls for the labour of men who would otherwise be engaged in war work, as the Americans are fighting on our side and the soldiers they have sent to the battlefield require enormous quantities of food and military supplies to enable them to conquer the enemy. The silver which America is sending to India has to be taken in trucks to the seaports, and this adds to the difficulties of working the American railways when they are engaged in carrying supplies for the war. Then, when the silver has reached the ports it has to be taken away thousands of miles by ship to this country at a time when every vessel is wanted for the purpose of the war and for conveying articles which people in India would be very glad to have such as cotton cloth and salt which at the present time owing to the demands for ships for other purposes cannot be brought to this country in the same quantities as before the war. The consequences of this shortage of ships is that the stocks of cloth and salt as well as of other articles used by the people of India are much smaller than in ordinary times and that prices are much higher.

It has been shown that huge amounts of silver have been bought by the Government within the past two years. But even these will not be sufficient to provide means of hoarding currencies, and it cannot be too strongly declared that this practice is most harmful to India and to her soldiers. In the first place, instead of spending money to buy the silver India could have done instead upon it and the money could then have been spent in providing rifles, clothes and food for soldiers, and in building more ships which might have brought to this country articles that every one wishes to have such as salt and cotton cloth just mentioned. Secondly, when hoarding makes it more difficult to obtain articles like salt and cotton cloth the prices of these articles as well as of foodstuffs and other necessities are raised and the people who depend on these injure themselves and their friends.

There is no reason whatever why people should hoard rupees in India. The Government is just and powerful and there are many opportunities for safely investing money which is not required for the time being—so that it can earn interest and increase the wealth of its owner. In all foreign countries which have become rich and prosperous, the people instead of hoarding the money which they have, is spent to make more money and they thus benefit not only themselves but the whole community. There are Post Office savings banks and Government loans in which they can invest and from which they can draw interest and their money when used in this way is not liable to be lost or stolen by thieves, as it would be if they followed the practice of hoarding which is so common in this country. In India too, no less has been stated, plenty of opportunities can be found for placing money where it is absolutely safe and where it can earn good interest. If a person has spare money which he is likely to want at short notice he can deposit it in the Post Office savings bank or buy Post Office stock certificates with it. Or if he is not likely to require it immediately he can invest it in War Bonds which pay a very substantial rate of interest. It is a direct benefit to him to use it in either of these ways. It is also a direct benefit to the country since any money lent to Government will be spent in India in buying for the soldiers wheat, rice and other foodstuffs as well as salt, cotton, hides, boots and shoes. A large demand for all these means good profit for the sports and other producers and adds to the wealth and prosperity of the whole country.

It will be clear then to any one who looks at the question of hoarding intelligently that the practice is a bad and a foolish one. Hoarding injures the soldiers who are fighting for India, and thus helps the enemies of the Indian people. It also prevents money from being used to earn profits in the shape of interest, and it makes more difficult for Government to buy Indian products for the use of the Allies in the field.

Great harm is done in the world by want of thought. The hoarding of rupees in India affords an illustration of the truth. It is not too much, however, to believe that once the facts are realised every patriotic Indian will not only avoid hoarding himself but will do all in his power to persuade others from following a practice which benefits and assists the bitterest foes of his country.

should not exceed more than three students who in their opinion are most deserving of scholarship and they should select the secondary school leaving candidates of each section along with their applications to the Director who will nominate the candidates with a view to the award of scholarships.

All applications should be dated. Separate forms should be used for each grade of scholarship. If one form is not large enough, the list should be continued on another form.

(3) All applications for scholarships should reach the Director, the Registrar or the Inspector, in the case only, before the 1st August 1918. Applications forwarded after the prescribed date will not be considered.

(4) Scholarships payable in higher elementary standards and in secondary schools will be sanctioned by the Inspectors and Inspectresses at their discretion and subject to the conditions, if any, which have been specified in this notification; and those payable in college classes by the Director. Scholarships remaining unappropriated in any year may be offered for advanced school subjects in other schools. The transfer of such scholarships from one class to another will be made by the Director, and Inspectors and Inspectresses will themselves furnish him, before the end of September next, with a statement showing the number of scholarships placed at their disposal, the number awarded by them under their head for the different classes of the secondary, such as Tryon, Mohammedan, Mappila, other backward classes, Indian Christian, Eurasian, Non-Resident, etc., and the number available for transfer. Casual leave without suspension or loss of scholarship may be granted for good and sufficient reasons for a period not exceeding fifteen days in the year, provided such leave does not unduly interrupt or prevent attendance at school. Under the above conditions, leave for scholarship-holders in schools may be sanctioned by the head of the institution, who shall then report it to the Inspector or Inspectress concerned. If a scholarship-holder absents himself without good reason on the opening day after the vacation for the school or college, the scholarship for the vacation is liable to be withheld under the orders of the sanctioning authority.

(7) No person receiving a scholarship under this notification shall be permitted to hold any other scholarship, provided wholly or partly by Government without the special sanction of the Director. Such sanction will be accorded only for very distinguished work.

(8) In cases where the confer of merit cannot be continued, or where the number of eligible candidates is in excess of the number of available scholarships, it is open to heads of institutions to hold a competitive examination in not less than three subjects with a view to select the most deserving candidates.

(9) All scholarships payable under the above rules are liable to forfeiture for idleness, misconduct, irregularity in attendance, or failure to make due progress or to secure annual promotion.

(10) A scholarship held in any class shall run from the beginning of the month in which the holder joins the class, and shall not continue to be drawn after he ceases to attend it.

(11) The scholarships are payable monthly and in advance.

(12) The scholarships mentioned in (1), as the scholarship-holder's progress in the next higher class, be either renewed or increased at the rates given above, provided the scholarship-holder's progress and conduct have been satisfactory. The Standard Barometer and Thermometers are read at 8 a.m., 10 a.m., 4 p.m. and 8 p.m., and the daily means are obtained by the application of Henry's corrections, deduced from twenty years' observations. The surface of the barometer is twenty-two feet above the level of the sea, and the surface of the rain gauge is two feet above the ground. The wind, rain and general weather registered are by the aneroid Civil Day—down and night in daylight.

The total quantity of rain collected from January 1st to 31-12-1895, the average day for the same period being 0.15 inches.

Madras Observatory, 1st July 1896.
